Pomona Girl Killed After TV Set Hit To The Head

(CBS) POMONA, Calif. A two-year-old girl died in Pomona hospital Saturday after she got hit in the head by a television set, according to Pomona police.

The girl was injured around 8 p.m. Friday at her home in Saint Paul Street. It happened when her sister, 4, attempted to reach for a video on top of the television set, causing it to fall, police said.

One of the parents was in the room, but could not prevent the accident. The girl was transferred to Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center and placed on life support, but later succumbed to her injuries early Saturday

My Little Butterfly

My little butterfly spread her colorful wings and flew into the horizons of the heavenly blue sky she flew from my hands but not from my heart. I asked God for a sign or an answer, "of why, why my child ". I remember I was given a mug of tea to calm my nerves. I grabbed the mug and threw it at my bedroom mirror. The only thing that I remember was waking up in tears facing the mirror and it was shattered into a flower design with a sun shining on it. God was with me. One day later, Natali came in my dreams and said, "Mama, do not cry or be sad". Awoken by my vision I took a step out side to take some fresh air and to clear all my thoughts. I looked up to dark sky and took a depth breath, when suddenly the sky lit three to four times in purple, red, and blue lights. I knew my Angel Natali entered the paradise.

My little girl has to take on a mission that God has assigned for her. God needed a special angel and choose my NATA'S to be by his side, the accident happened in November a cold misty night. Her purpose might be to protect the lonely children from their cold nights, or to give them sunshine and hopes to their hearts. Maybe she is the new little twinkle twinkle stars that children wish upon the sky to guide them and to protect them from all evil acts.

If you have a child please take care of them with love and have patience, do not ever take a child for granted. Do not be selfish enough to get caught up in materialistic things or in your own world and turn your backs on them. A child will love you unconditionally, no matter what the circumstances are in life.

I now know that losing a child is the worst pain any parent could ever experience and you never know when God might take your child away from you.

"Share this message with all your friends and family. It could save another family the heartache of losing a child."
